Belgian Energy Storage Power Supply Procurement Project

What is the energy storage project in Belgium?

The main energy storage project in Belgium is the construction and operation of an offshore "energy atoll" (essentially a manmade offshore pumped-storage facility), for which the Electricity Act has been modified in 2014 (see below), in order to support offshore wind-generated electricity production.

Will Belgium's Drogenbos Battery Park supply enough power?

Belgium's Drogenbos battery park will supply enough power for the average daily electricity consumption of 38,400 households. On October 30, 2025, high-voltage grid operator Elia announced that ENGIE's Drogenbos project has been selected in the fifth CRM auction, securing a 15-year capacity contract starting in November 2027.

How many mw & GWh will be installed in Belgium?

Together, these projects will represent a total installed capacity of 380 MW and a total storage capacity of 1.5 GWh. They will deliver an essential contribution to grid stability and maximize renewable energy integration into the Belgian electricity system.

What is Belgium's new "CRM" project?

The CRM was introduced by the federal government to safeguard Belgium's electricity supply during the coming winters. The new 80 MW/320 MWh project will comprise 88 battery modules that can supply power for up to four hours -- equivalent to 64,000 home batteries of 5 kWh each, or the average daily electricity consumption of 38,400 households.
